Hypnosis

Hypnosis

A social interaction in which one person (the hypnotist) suggests to another (the subject) that certain perceptions, feelings, thoughts, or behaviors will spontaneously occur.

Mesmerism

Credit for hypnosis’ popularity goes to Franz Anton Mesmer, a physician, who mistakenly thought he had discovered “animal magnetism.” Some of his patients experienced trancelike states, and felt better on waking up.

Aspects of Hypnosis

1. Posthypnotic Suggestion: Suggestion carried out after the subject is no longer hypnotized.

2. Posthypnotic Amnesia: Supposed inability to recall what one experienced during hypnosis.

OBJECTIVE 19-1: Define hypnosis, and note some similarities between the behavior of hypnotized people and that of motivated unhypnotized people.
Hypnotic Feats
Strength, stamina, perceptual and memory abilities are similarly affected in hypnotized and unhypnotized people.

Facts and Falsehood
Those who practice hypnosis agree that its power resides in the subject’s openness to suggestion.

Can anyone experience hypnosis?  Yes, to some extent.
Can hypnosis enhance recall of forgotten events?  No.

OBJECTIVE 19-2! Discuss the characteristics of people who are susceptible to hypnosis, and evaluate claims that hypnosis can influence people's memory, will, health, and perception of pain.

Can hypnosis force people to act against their will?  No.
Can hypnosis be therapeutic?  Yes. Self-suggestion can heal too.
Can hypnosis alleviate pain?  Yes. Lamaze can do that too.
Is Hypnosis an Altered State of Consciousness?

1. Social Influence Theory:
   Hypnotic subjects may simply be imaginative actors playing a social role.

2. Divided Consciousness:
   Theory: Hypnosis is a special state of dissociated (divided) consciousness (Hilgard, 1986, 1992).

Both Theories

Attention is directed from an aversive odor. How?

Social influence theory: the subject is so caught up in the hypnotized role that she ignores the odor.

Divided-consciousness theory: hypnosis has caused a split in awareness.

OBJECTIVE 19-3: Give arguments for and against hypnosis as an altered state of consciousness.
